Project Background

Today, aesthetic plastic surgery education is a global challenge. In large part, this is due to variance in training programs for aspiring aesthetic plastic surgeons. There are few recognised training programs in Aesthetics and training duration and content is highly variable across different regions. In surveys, our members cite a need for more specific training in aesthetic plastic surgery and that they are eager to gain additional knowledge and achieve the recognition of an international standard of excellence. ISAPS aims to address this gap through the ISAPS Academy and the ISAPS Certification Program.

The ISAPS Academy

A primarily digital learning space (delivered through a learning management system), for surgeons at all career stages to complete full learning journeys in aesthetic plastic topics. The Academy will become the central hub for all ISAPS education and will comprise online courses, knowledge tests, options to track learning, connect with others in the community, and ultimately to obtain an ISAPS globally recognised certification. The platform will host courses and modules that together comprise the ISAPS International Certification Program curriculum, each of which may be separately completed.

The ISAPS Certification Program

The ISAPS Certification Program aims to provide an international certification in Aesthetic Plastic Surgery for ISAPS members. ISAPS has developed its own curriculum and is producing associated learning resources, which we aim to have independently endorsed for further international recognition.
